THREE GET DEGREES

St. John's College Holds Its Commencement.

PROMOTIONS ARE ANNOUNCED

Addresses Are Delivered by Each of the Graduates and John J. Nolan, an Alumnus—A. J. Lix, Bernard P. Hessler, and I. Joseph Farley Given Diplomas by Brother Germanus.

Friends of St. John's College gathered in hundreds at the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon in attendance upon the forty-first commencement exercises of the famous Catholic school. Though there were but three graduates, much interest was attached to the announcement of promotions to higher classes of the undergraduates, and the presentation of these of their certificates of promotion.

The three to receive degrees were August J. Lix, master of arts, his bachelor degree, having been received in 1905; Bernard P. Hessler and I. Joseph Farley, both of whom received the degree of bachelor of science. Mr. Hessler also won the scholarship to the Catholic University.

The programme included addresses by each of the graduates and by John J. Nolan, of this city, an alumnus of St. John's, class of '87, who, according to the custom of the school, had been asked as an alumnus to deliver the address to the graduating class. Between addresses a section of the Marine Band rendered an excellent musical programme.

Address by Mr. Farley. Mr. Farley's address dealt with the topic "Patriotism—the safeguard of American ideals." He dwelt eloquently upon the theme, and roused the audience to enthusiastic applause at frequent intervals.

Mr. Hessler followed with an address on "The evils of the press," and Mr. Lix gave a historical review of the "Inter-oceanic Canal," leading his hearers from the early days of the project down to the present, and prophesying certain success for the undertaking in the near future.

Mr. Nolan advised young men with no idea of entering a profession to learn a trade. He quoted from President Roosevelt's speech at the Michigan Agricultural College, in which the President said that the printer, electrical worker, house painter, and foundryman should be trained as carefully as the stenographer or drug clerk, and that a man should get under the idea that to earn $12 a week and call it wages.

Mr. Nolan took as his text, and urged his young hearers to think along these lines. He said there were too many young men working for $12 a week, and that the remedy lay in learning good trades.

The list of students receiving certificates of promotion follows: First academic class—Henry Hornig, Charles P. Mahoney, Francis L. Dunbar, Andrew H. Barry, Francis J. Beecher, William L. Yates, George W. Bord, Otto von Herbolz, Charles H. Clark, John E. Leach, John J. Murray, Joseph P. Robinson, Patrick O'Dea, Edward A. Cronin, Edward J. Lawler, Francis P. Cronin, Lawrence E. Hoover, John J. Babington, Charles Duggan, William P. Ryan, Edgar J. Omer, and Rudolph Besser.

Hold Class Exercises.

Business High Students Entertain Relatives and Friends.

Class night exercises of the Business High School were held in the large auditorium of that institution last night. Many of the parents and friends of the graduates assembled to listen to the clever prophecies and valedictory addresses which comprised the main features of the exercises.

In an address in behalf of the undergraduates, William Patchell made merry at the expense of the faculty and the seniors. His remarks were all in the spirit of fun, and highly appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Allan Davis, principal of the school, delivered the faculty address. All the musical numbers were furnished by the Rebekah Orchestra.
